Sheffield Cemetery- Edible England Art Exhibition

Porter Croft has been asked to contribute art work to Sheffield Cemetery heritage art exhibition which will be held at the Samuel Worth Chapel over the Heritage Open Day week (11-17th September). The art exhibition is called 'Edible England' and is centred around the cultures and type of food people eat which are represented in the locality. The art exhibition also links to work each child will be doing in back in school for our 'Good to be me week' to celebrate the identities and the diversity of the pupils at Porter Croft.

As part of a local visit, each class will be visiting the exhibition and will be given a tour of the cemetery by its educational curator.
